Unit Plan

Communities in colonial Australia (1800s)

In this unit, students:

- examine key events related to the development of British colonies in Australia after 1800
- identify the economic, political and social reasons for colonial developments in Australia after 1800
- investigate the effects that colonisation had on the lives of Aboriginal peoples and on the environment
- locate information from sources about aspects of daily life for different groups of people during the colonial period in Australia
- present ideas in narrative form to describe how and why life changed and stayed the same in a colonial community
- identify different viewpoints about the significance of individuals and groups in shaping the colonies
- sequence significant events and developments that occurred during the development of colonial Australia using timelines.

For further information to support teaching of the unit, view the:

- Year level plan
- Teacher lesson overview

Throughout the unit, ensure all students have opportunities to develop their higher-order thinking skills. Students develop skills in thinking when they are encouraged to reflect, inquire, generate, and analyse, synthesise and evaluate. Resources that support higher-order thinking skills:

- Helpful information - Higher-order thinking skills Years P-9

Throughout this unit, students will require ready access to ICT at a whole-class, small-group and individual level. Such ICT include spreadsheet software, graphing software, graphic calculators

Australian Curriculum

F-6/7 HASS- Year 5

Year 5 Achievement Standard

By the end of Year 5, students describe the significance of people and events/developments in bringing about change. They identify the causes and effects of change on particular communities and describe aspects of the past that have remained the same. They describe the experiences of different people in the past. Students explain the characteristics of places in different locations at local to national scales. They identify and describe the interconnections between people and the human and environmental characteristics of places, and between components of environments. They identify the effects of these interconnections on the characteristics of places and environments. Students identify the importance of values and processes to Australia's democracy and describe the roles of different people in Australia's legal system. They recognise that choices need to be made when allocating resources. They describe factors that influence their choices as consumers and identify strategies that can be used to inform these choices. They describe different views on how to respond to an issue or challenge.

Students develop questions for an investigation. They locate and collect data and information from a range of sources to answer inquiry questions. They examine sources to determine their purpose and to identify different viewpoints. They interpret data to identify and describe distributions, simple patterns and trends, and to infer relationships, and suggest conclusions based on evidence. Students sequence information about events, the lives of individuals and selected phenomena in chronological order using timelines. They sort, record and represent data in different formats, including large-scale and small-scale maps, using basic conventions. They work with others to generate alternative responses to an issue or challenge and reflect on their learning to independently propose action, describing the possible effects of their proposed action. They present their ideas, findings and conclusions in a range of communication forms using discipline-specific terms and appropriate conventions.

Content Descriptions

Inquiry and skills

Evaluating and reflecting

- Evaluate evidence to draw conclusions (ACHASSI101)

Questioning

- Develop appropriate questions to guide an inquiry about people, events, developments, places, systems and challenges (ACHASSI094)

Communicating

- Present ideas, findings, viewpoints and conclusions in a range of texts and modes that incorporate source materials, digital and non-digital representations and discipline-specific terms and conventions (ACHASSI105)

Analysing

- Examine different viewpoints on actions, events, issues and phenomena in the past and present (ACHASSI099)

Knowledge and Understanding

History

- Reasons (economic, political and social) for the establishment of British colonies in Australia after 1800 (ACHASSK106)
- The impact of a significant development or event on an Australian colony (ACHASSK108)
- The nature of convict or colonial presence, including the factors that influenced patterns of development, aspects of the daily life of the inhabitants (including Aboriginal Peoples and Torres Strait Islander Peoples) and how the environment changed (ACHASSK107)
- The reasons people migrated to Australia and the experiences and contributions of a particular migrant group within a colony (ACHASSK109)
- The role that a significant individual or group played in shaping a colony (ACHASSK110)

Students require prior experience with the following:

- Pose questions to investigate people, events, places and issues (ACHASSI073)
- Locate and collect information and data from different sources, including observations (ACHASSI074)
- Sequence information about people's lives and events (ACHASSI076)
- Examine information to identify different points of view and distinguish facts from opinions (ACHASSI077)
- Interpret data and information displayed in different formats, to identify and describe distributions and simple patterns (ACHASSI078)
- Draw simple conclusions based on analysis of information and data (ACHASSI079)
- Present ideas, findings and conclusions in texts and modes that incorporate digital and non-digital representations and discipline-specific terms (ACHASSI082)

Curriculum working towards

The teaching and learning in this unit work towards the following:

- Develop appropriate questions to guide an inquiry about people, events, developments, places, systems and challenges (ACHASSI122)
- Locate and collect relevant information and data from primary sources and secondary sources (ACHASSI123)
- Sequence information about people's lives, events, developments and phenomena using a variety of methods including timelines (ACHASSI125)
- Examine different viewpoints on actions, events, issues and phenomena in the past and present (ACHASSI127)
- Interpret data and information displayed in a range of formats to identify, describe and compare distributions, patterns and trends, and to infer relationships (ACHASSI128)

Unit PlanPlan Name: Unit 3 - HASS Year 5 (V8)*Year: 5Status: MasterLearning Area/Subject: Humanities and Social SciencesDuration: 8 WeeksGeneral capabilities

This unit provides opportunities for students to engage in the following general capabilities.

Literacy

- Comprehending texts through listening, reading and viewing
- Composing texts through speaking, writing and creating
- Text knowledge
- Grammar knowledge
- Word knowledge
- Visual knowledge

Numeracy

- Using spatial reasoning

Information and communication technology (ICT) capability

- Investigating with ICT

Critical and creative thinking

- Inquiring - identifying, exploring and organising information and ideas
- Reflecting on thinking and processes
- Analysing, synthesising and evaluating reasoning and procedures

Intercultural understanding

- Recognising culture and developing respect
- Interacting and empathising with others

For further information, refer to General capabilities in the Australian Curriculum and the Learning area specific advice.

Cross-curriculum priorities

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander histories and cultures

Students will develop a knowledge, deep understanding and respect for Aboriginal peoples' and Torres Strait Islander peoples' history and culture and build an awareness that their histories are part of a shared history belonging to all Australians.

The embedding of Aboriginal peoples' and Torres Strait Islander peoples' histories and cultures into the curriculum can be a challenging task. For further information including pedagogical approaches refer to C2C: Aboriginal peoples & Torres Strait Islander peoples Cross Curriculum Priority support.

Asia and Australia's engagement with Asia

Students will learn about and recognise the diversity within and between the countries of the Asia region. They will develop knowledge and understanding of Asian societies, cultures, beliefs and environments, and the connections between the peoples of Asia, Australia, and the rest of the world. Students will develop skills to communicate and engage with the peoples of Asia so they can effectively live, work and learn in the region.

For further information, refer to Asia and Australia's engagement with Asia in the Australian Curriculum and the Learning area statements.

Assessing student learning

Assessment name: Communities in colonial Australia (1800s)

Assessment description: Students conduct an inquiry to answer the inquiry question, How and why did the lives of the people in the Australian colonies change or stay the same because of the gold rush?

In this unit, assessment of student learning aligns to the following aspects of the achievement standard.

By the end of Year 5, students describe the significance of people and events/developments in bringing about change. They identify the causes and effects of change on particular communities and describe aspects of the past that have remained the same. They describe the experiences of different people in the past. Students explain the characteristics of places in different locations at local to national scales. They identify and describe the interconnections between people and the human and environmental characteristics of places, and between components of environments. They identify the effects of these interconnections on the characteristics of places and environments. Students identify the importance of values and processes to Australia's democracy and describe the roles of different people in Australia's legal system. They recognise that choices need to be made when allocating resources. They describe factors that influence their choices as consumers and identify strategies that can be used to inform these choices. They describe different views on how to respond to an issue or challenge.

Students develop questions for an investigation. They locate and collect data and information from a range of sources to answer inquiry questions. They examine sources to determine their purpose and to identify different viewpoints. They interpret data to identify and describe distributions, simple patterns and trends, and to infer relationships, and suggest conclusions based on evidence. Students sequence information about events, the lives of individuals and selected phenomena in chronological order using timelines. They sort, record and represent data in different formats, including large-scale and small-scale maps, using basic conventions. They work with others to generate alternative responses to an issue or challenge and reflect on their learning to independently propose action, describing the possible effects of their proposed action. They present their ideas, findings and conclusions in a range of communication forms using discipline-specific terms and appropriate conventions.

Monitoring student learning

Student learning should be monitored throughout the teaching and learning process to determine student progress and learning needs.

Each lesson provides opportunities to gather evidence about how students are progressing and what they need to learn next.

Feedback

Feedback to students

Establish active feedback partnerships between students, teachers and parents to find out:

- what each student already knows and can do
- how each student is going
- where each student needs to go next.

Ensure feedback is timely, ongoing, instructive and purposeful.

Use feedback to inform future teaching and learning.

Reflection on the unit plan

Identify what worked well during and at the end of the unit for future planning.
