Unit Plan

Australia in the past

In this unit, students will explore the following inquiry question:

- How have key figures, events and values shaped Australian society, its system of government and citizenship?

Learning opportunities support students to:

- examine the key figures, events and ideas that led to Australia's Federation and constitution
- recognise the contribution of individuals and groups to the development of Australian society since Federation
- investigate the key institutions, people and processes of Australia's democratic and legal system
- locate, collect and interpret information from primary sources
- sequence information about events and the lives of individuals in chronological order
- develop arguments
- use criteria to make decisions and judgments
- work in groups to generate responses to issues and challenges
- propose action in response to issues and challenges.

Duration: 8 Weeks

Australian Curriculum

F-6/7 HASS- Year 6

Year 6 Achievement Standard

By the end of Year 6, students explain the significance of an event/development, an individual and/or group. They identify and describe continuities and changes for different groups in the past and present. They describe the causes and effects of change on society. They compare the experiences of different people in the past. Students describe, compare and explain the diverse characteristics of different places in different locations from local to global scales. They describe how people, places, communities and environments are diverse and globally interconnected and identify the effects of these interconnections over time. Students explain the importance of people, institutions and processes to Australia's democracy and legal system. They describe the rights and responsibilities of Australian citizens and the obligations they may have as global citizens. Students recognise why choices about the allocation of resources involve trade-offs. They explain why it is important to be informed when making consumer and financial decisions. They identify the purpose of business and recognise the different ways that businesses choose to provide goods and services. They explain different views on how to respond to an issue or challenge.

Students develop appropriate questions to frame an investigation. They locate and collect useful data and information from primary and secondary sources. They examine sources to determine their origin and purpose and to identify different perspectives in the past and present. They interpret data to identify, describe and compare distributions, patterns and trends, and to infer relationships, and evaluate evidence to draw conclusions. Students sequence information about events, the lives of individuals and selected phenomena in chronological order and represent time by creating timelines. They organise and represent data in a range of formats, including large- and small-scale maps, using appropriate conventions. They collaboratively generate alternative responses to an issue, use criteria to make decisions and identify the advantages and disadvantages of preferring one decision over others. They reflect on their learning to propose action in response to an issue or challenge and describe the probable effects of their proposal. They present ideas, findings, viewpoints and conclusions in a range of communication forms that incorporate source materials, mapping, graphing, communication conventions and discipline-specific terms.

Content Descriptions

Inquiry and skills

Evaluating and reflecting

- Evaluate evidence to draw conclusions (ACHASSI129)
- Reflect on learning to propose personal and/or collective action in response to an issue or challenge, and predict the probable effects (ACHASSI132)
- Use criteria to make decisions and judgements and consider advantages and disadvantages of preferring one decision over others (ACHASSI131)
- Work in groups to generate responses to issues and challenges (ACHASSI130)

Analysing

- Examine different viewpoints on actions, events, issues and phenomena in the past and present (ACHASSI127)

Knowledge and Understanding

Civics and citizenship

- The key institutions of Australia's democratic system of government and how it is based on the Westminster system (ACHASSK143)
- The responsibilities of electors and representatives in Australia's democracy (ACHASSK145)

Curriculum Priorities - Pedagogy

Considerations

Unit Plan*Plan Name: Unit 1 - HASS Year 6 (V8)*Year: 6*Status: MasterLearning Area/Subject: Humanities and Social SciencesDuration: 8 WeeksPrior and future curriculum*Relevant prior curriculum

Students require prior experience with the following:

- Locate and collect relevant information from primary and secondary sources (ACHASS1095)
- Sequence information about people's lives, events, developments and phenomena using a variety of methods including timelines (ACHASS1097)
- Examine different viewpoints on actions, events, issues and phenomena in the past and present (ACHASS1099)
- Evaluate evidence to draw conclusions (ACHASS1101)
- Work in groups to generate responses to issues and challenges (ACHASS1102)
- Use criteria to make decisions and judgements and consider advantages and disadvantages of preferring one decision over others (ACHASS1103)
- Present ideas, findings, viewpoints and conclusions in a range of texts and modes that incorporate source materials, digital and non-digital representations and discipline-specific terms and conventions (ACHASS1105)
- Reasons (economic, political and social) for the establishment of British colonies in Australia after 1800 (ACHASSK106)
- The key values that underpin Australia's democracy (ACHASSK115)
- The key features of the electoral process in Australia (ACHASSK116)
- Why regulations and laws are enforced and the personnel involved (ACHASSK117)

Curriculum working towards

The teaching and learning in this unit work towards the following:

- Apply a methodology to locate and collect relevant information and data from a range of primary and secondary sources (ACHASS1153)
- Sequence information about events, developments, periods and phenomena using a variety of discipline-appropriate formats and conventions including chronological frameworks that use dating conventions (ACHASS1155)
- Examine primary and secondary sources to determine their origin, purpose and reliability.
- Analyse primary and secondary sources to identify values and perspectives on people, actions, events, issues and phenomena, past and present (ACHASS1157)
- Evaluate and synthesise evidence to draw conclusions (ACHASS1159)
- Collaborate to generate alternatives in responses to an issue or challenge, and compare the potential costs and benefits of each (ACHASS1160)
- Develop and use criteria to make informed decisions and judgements.
- Present ideas, findings, viewpoints, explanations and conclusions in a range of texts and modes that incorporate source materials, citations, graphic representations and discipline-specific terms, conventions and concepts (ACHASS1163)
- The range of sources that can be used in an historical investigation, including archaeological written sources (ACHASSK168)
- The key features of government under the Australian Constitution with a focus on: the separation of powers, the roles of the Executive, the houses of parliament and the division of powers (ACHASSK193)
- The process for constitutional change through a referendum (ACHASSK194)
- How Australia's legal system aims to provide justice, including through the rule of law, presumption of innocence, burden of proof, right to a fair trial and right to legal representation (ACHASSK195)
- How values, including freedom, respect, inclusion, civility, responsibility, compassion, equality and a 'fair go', can promote cohesion within Australian society (ACHASSK197)

Unit Plan*Plan Name: Unit 1 - HASS Year 6 (V8)*Year: 6Status: MasterLearning Area/Subject: Humanities and Social SciencesDuration: 8 WeeksGeneral capabilities

This unit provides opportunities for students to engage in the following general capabilities.

Literacy

- Comprehending texts through listening, reading and viewing
- Composing texts through speaking, writing and creating
- Text knowledge
- Grammar knowledge
- Word knowledge
- Visual knowledge

Numeracy

- Recognising and using patterns and relationships
- Using spatial reasoning
- Using measurement

Critical and creative thinking

- Inquiring - identifying, exploring and organising information and ideas
- Generating ideas, possibilities and actions
- Reflecting on thinking and processes
- Analysing, synthesising and evaluating reasoning and procedures

Information and communication technology (ICT) capability

- Investigating with ICT
- Creating with ICT
- Managing and operating ICT

Personal and social capability

- Self-awareness
- Self-management
- Social awareness
- Social management

- Understanding ethical concepts and issues
- Reasoning in decision-making and actions
- Exploring values, rights and responsibilities

Intercultural understanding

- Recognising culture and developing respect
- Interacting and empathising with others
- Reflecting on intercultural experiences and taking responsibility

For further information, refer to General capabilities in the Australian Curriculum and the Learning area specific advice.

Cross-curriculum priorities*Sustainability

Students will develop the knowledge, skills, values and world views necessary for people to act in ways that contribute to more sustainable patterns of living.

For further information, refer to Sustainability in the Australian Curriculum and the Learning area statements.

Assessing student learning

Assessment name: Australia in the past

Assessment description: Students explain the significance of key people, events, institutions and processes to the development of the Australian nation.

In this unit, assessment of student learning aligns to the following aspects of the achievement standard.

By the end of Year 6, students explain the significance of an event/development, an individual and/or group. They identify and describe continuities and changes for different groups in the past and present. They describe the causes and effects of change on society. They compare the experiences of different people in the past. Students describe, compare and explain the diverse characteristics of different places in different locations from local to global scales. They describe how people, places, communities and environments are diverse and globally interconnected and identify the effects of these interconnections over time. Students explain the importance of people, institutions and processes to Australia's democracy and legal system. They describe the rights and responsibilities of Australian citizens and the obligations they may have as global citizens. Students recognise why choices about the allocation of resources involve trade-offs. They explain why it is important to be informed when making consumer and financial decisions. They identify the purpose of business and recognise the different ways that businesses choose to provide goods and services. They explain different views on how to respond to an issue or challenge.

Students develop appropriate questions to frame an investigation. They locate and collect useful data and information from primary and secondary sources. They examine sources to determine their origin and purpose and to identify different perspectives in the past and present. They interpret data to identify, describe and compare distributions, patterns and trends, and to infer relationships, and evaluate evidence to draw conclusions. Students sequence information about events, the lives of individuals and selected phenomena in chronological order and represent time by creating timelines. They organise and represent data in a range of formats, including large- and small-scale maps, using appropriate conventions. They collaboratively generate alternative responses to an issue, use criteria to make decisions and identify the advantages and disadvantages of preferring one decision over others. They reflect on their learning to propose action in response to an issue or challenge and describe the probable effects of their proposal. They present ideas, findings, viewpoints and conclusions in a range of communication forms that incorporate source materials, mapping, graphing, communication conventions and discipline-specific terms.

Monitoring student learning

Student learning should be monitored throughout the teaching and learning process to determine student progress and learning needs.

Each lesson provides opportunities to gather evidence about how students are progressing and what they need to learn next.

Feedback

Feedback may relate to misunderstandings and common alternative conceptions. In this unit this may include:

- Students may believe that everyone experienced the past in the same way. Explain to students that each person's experience is unique and the same event can be experienced in many different ways.
- Students may think that the past is a story made of fixed facts. Explain to students that because people's experiences are different, the way they tell stories of what is happening can be different, too, so the 'facts' they record can be different and interpreted in different ways.
- Students may believe that every change in the past was for the good – they see change as progress.
- Students may believe that when change happens, it is always quick. Explain that some changes can be immediate and dramatic, while others can occur slowly and can be difficult to observe while they are happening.
- Students may think that the status and rights of different groups in society have always been the same as they are today.
